Description of Program

The Today's Youth program serves 45 youth and primary goal is to gain high school equivalency or occupational skills credential leading to self-sustaining employment. The majority will attend vocational, community or college. Staff offers two-day seminars at beginning of school session. These seminars include employability skills, career guidance, social skills, personal responsibilities, health, budgeting and citizenship training. Participants meet weekly with case manager to review personal, occupational or educational issues. The Project Director and counselor play a significant role in providing resources, referrals, and guidance throughout the participants training program. Participants receive a quarterly newsletter which provides program updates, educational opportunities, success stories, and resource information. Participants will be expected to complete a community service project. May do work experience or summer work. May also receive WIA scholarship (ITA) to assist with cost of training.
